DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 83, 84, 86, 87, and 89 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Allan et al (5,566,443).

Allan et al discloses a transformer device having a single core comprising a substantially rectangular-shaped magnet having four sides, wherein each side is a section of the rectangular-shaped magnet (see figures 6 and 7), two primary windings, each primary winding mounted on the core on opposing sides of the magnet (501, 502), and two secondary windings (within 501 and 502), each secondary winding mounted on the core on one of the same opposing sides of the magnet. Hence, the power through the transformer is balanced between the two opposing sides. Further, an insulating compound between each pair of the primary and secondary windings is clearly shown in figures 2 and 3. "A further flat insulation 24 is placed on the primary winding 23, and further electrical conductor is then wound into the groove 1C to fill the groove and form an outer secondary winding 25 for the transformer which may have an output secondary voltage of 400 V." (col. 9, lines 35-39). The two primary windings are coupled in parallel.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 85 and 88 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Allan et al (5,566,443).

Allan et al meets all of the claim limitations except for the use of two tertiary windings in parallel mounted on each of the two primary windings. Allan et al, however, teaches clearly that other windings (secondary) being mounted on the primary windings is well known in the art. Thus, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to mount the tertiary windings on the primary windings to obtain the claimed invention for the purpose of reducing the mean path length and resulting volume and weight of core steel. See column 12, lines 23-30.
